STAKES-OTHER RACES AT SHEEPSHEAD. There was a large attendance at the Sheeps head Bay race-course yesterday, though the programme there was a gentle sea breeze. It was the last day of the regular autumn meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club. An extra day's racing will be given, however, to-

Probably if Mr. Ashe had put up a more skillful rider than the boy first heat, for Miss Woodford only beat the filly by a and it called forth all McLaughlin's head and it called forth all McLaughlin's skill seen to win by that much. The second heat was also close, but again McLaughlin's superior skill availed. The vase was on exhibition on the lawn in front of the grand stand, and was much admired.

Mr. Clark dropped the fing to an exceptionally bad start in the Adien Stakes. Those that got the worst of the send off were never able to every come the advantage of the leaders, though Dew Drop, the faverite, made a gailant effort, and did nin a good fourth; but with her heavy weight and bad start sie really had no chance to win.

In the last race Meaten on Rica was not equal to william Donehue on Farewell at the finish; so Farewell won by a scant head. There was another bad start, the Lavorite being left at the post.

THE TRANSFER OF THE BUFFALO CLUB. CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (Special) .- President A. G. ithat he had as yet received neither official notifi-of the change nor information as to the prospects sague club being retained at Buffalo for the re-ler of the present session. A telegram making the same request was also re-ceived from George Hughson, of the Buffalo club. Mr. Spaulding sent the following answer to both:

The championship is at stake in the few remaining games to be played, and Chicago will not consent to the Enfalo-New-York series being played in New-York.

"I expect that I shall have the New-York club management in my hair," said Mr. Spaulding, "for the nature of my decision in this matter, but the race is just close enough to permit of my demanding the club's rights to the letter and making no concessions whatever, rights to the letter and making no concessions whatever, and this I propose to do. Suppose the Buffalo crew should disband now instead of playing the season out I hardly think that lively, but if it should it would be pretty tough on the White Stockings, as under the League rules. New York having still five games to play against Buffalo, we should have to drop five games won from our record, which would give the New Yorks a lead of two games as we now stand. I think, however, that all games scheduled will be played, and that not until the close of the season, at least, will the Buffalo club have become a thing of the past."

CUTTERS VERSUS SLOOPS—SYSTEMS OF TIME AL-LOWANCE—COMING RACES. The last week has been an eventful one in American yachting, for in it the races for the America's cup have been sailed by the Puritan and Genesta. By these races two things have been proven: First, that in placing their faith in the old type of American sloop Americans can sloop could be built which would beat the world. The advocates of cutters rather expected that course, in light and variable winds, the Puritan came sweeping to the finish a winner by ever sixteen minutes. they were not greatly disappointed. But Wednesday's race was quite another thing. Then the wind howled race was quite another thing. Then the wind howled and the white-caps danced on the tumbling waters. It was the weather in which cutters are best; it was the weather in which the Genesta had achieved her greatest victories in British waters, and great things were expected of her. But the Puritan proved that she was the best heavy-weather boat in the world, and saved the cup to America. Englas and America have been working for years on radically different principles in their construction of yachts. Of late years the cutter craze has taken pos session of some of the best and most intelligent of American yachtsmen. Another class, however, while dissatisfied with the old type, have been patiently watching and waiting for the coming American sloop that was to combine all the advantages of all types They found it last week in the Puritan. Edward Burgess up and found himself famous. He did not originate new principles in the construction of Puritan, but he combined principles in a masterly manner. He had the intelligence to see what was good in all types and the genius to combine the good points into a harmonious whole. The race for the Commo dores' Cups on Friday proved, what every one knew before, that when the Genesta challenged for the America's Cup there was nothing in the country that could beat her.

dores' Cups on Friday proved, what every one knew before, that when the Genesta challenged for the America's Cup there was nothing in the country that could beat her.

A great many interesting questions have been raised by the races between the Puritan and Genesta, among them that of measurement for time allowance. As is well known, where boats of different sizes are racing against each other the largest allows the other a certain number of minutes or acconds on account of that difference. But then the question arises on what should that allowance be based—on length over all, length on water line, formage, or what? Various systems of time allowances have been evolved in which avarious dimensions of a yacht and its sail area have been taken into consideration, but none have been entirely satisfactory. Some have suggested that time allowances should be based on formage alone, and then it would become a question of the skill of the modeller so to construct his yacht that she would offer the least resistance to the water and have the greatest sail-carrying power. Others think that sail area should be taxed, as the best boat is the one which can go the fastest with the least sail. H. A. Gonge, formerly measurer of the Atlantic Yacht Club, has a system of time allowance based on the surface of a midship section. He says; "Take a cross section of a yacht at her widest part and the square feet in the plain surface of that section will form a basis on which, with sail area, a perfect system of time allowance can be built. The cross-section represents the initial realistness of the boat to the water. Now the beat modeller is he who can so shape his boat forward that she will divide the water at the essiest angle and model her so aft that the divided water will be passed most easily nawny. If we knew the square feet in the plain surface of a cross section of the Genesta and of the Paritan at their widest part and their sail area we would be able to toil which is the better boat more certainly than by simply knowing that t

WON BY THE PHILADELPHIA ELEVEN. WELL-EARNED VICTORY AT CRICKET OVER THE ENGLISH GENTLEMEN.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19 (Special) .- The international cricket match between the English gentle-men and the Philadelphians was continued to-day, and the grounds at Nicetown was again threnged with lovers of the sport. The ladies were out in larger force than on any day since the match began. The game was called promptly at eleven o'clock, Dan Newhall and Charlie Newhall resuming their innings, Horner and Turner bowling. On the first over Charlie Newhall got three off Horner, but after scoring eight he was retired by a ball off his hand on to the wicket by Turner. Nine out for 156. Lowry was the last man for the home team. Dan Newhall went to work in earnest and added to the score at almost every hit. Lowry has the reputation of being an unsafe bat, and with his accustomed luck, he raised a fly which the "Parson" took, thus retiring the player for 10, Dan Newhall for the second time carry-ing out his bat. The side was out for 178. Grand total for two innings 378.

At twelve minutes after 12 the English gentlemen sent Haycock and J. Thornton to bat. Macnutt and Charley Newhall bowling. Runs were beginning to pile up and Macnutt was taken off and Dan Newhall sent to bowl. His delivery was slow, but failed to prove effective. Bowlers were frequently changed and Haycock, after making 9 runs, was caught by Clarke. One out for 24. Turner went to the bat and was speedily retired for nothing at the wicket by Morgan. Two out for 24. Bolitho was sent in and was bowled by Clarke for 8. Three out for 35, Cobb was sent in and before any

At 2:25 the game was resumed and on the third over Nobic took Cobb's wicket for 10. Four out for 45. Newton was sent to the bat and after scoring one run was sumped by Nobic for one run. Five out for 47. "Parson" Thornton was sent in and so popular has he become on the field that the applause which greeted him lasted for several minutes. A. J. Thornton still held his place, frequently scoring, and proving the strongest man on the team. The "Parson" astonished his friends by a series of difficult hits, and was again roundly applauded, but, after a good stand, he was stumped by Charlie Newhall for 31. Six out for 94. Sanders was the next man to bat, and he was retired by Morgan at the wicket for 1. Seven out for 95. Bruen took his place and at 4:15 after a stand since 12 o'clock, Charlie Newhall took A. J. Thornton's wicket, retiring the player for 41. Eight out for 111. Horner went in and was retired early for 1. Nine out for 113. Whitley was the last hope for the visitors and he allowed Bruen to carry out his but by going out, his wickst being taken by Dan Newhall for 3 runs, putting the side out for 120 at twenty minutes to 5 o'clock. The Englishmen's grand total was 207, the Fhiladelphia team winning by 111 runs.

THE INDIANS WIN AT LACROSSE. LIVELY GAME ON STATEN ISLAND-GOOD PLAYING

BY NEW-YORKS. "Injuns! Real, live Injuns!" cried the Staten Island small boy yesterday afternoon, as he flattened his nose against the railings of the ferry pier at Tompkinsville, and gazed at the St. Regis Indian lacrosse team. of whose arrival be had received timely notice by means of large placards scattered over the island announcing Indians made their way to the ground of the Staten Island Cricket Club. The game was announced for 4 o'clock, but long before that the terraces were lined with people and the grand stand fully occupied, while the fences were fringed with all sorts and conditions of the small boy who speculated deeply in pennies on whether Them Injun fellers wouldn't win."

Ellortly before 4 o'clock the Indians walked out into the field amid a burst of applause. They were a fine, muscular set of fellows, and wore a picture que costume, the field amid a burst of applause. They were a fine, muscular set of fellows, and wore 2n ploturesque costume, consisting of a scarlet shirt, black velvet knee-breeches, scarlet stockings and white shoes. Their long black hair was neatly ited up with scarlet ribbon. The New-York men took the field and the ball was placed in the centre of the ground by Erastus Wiman. From the entset it was seen that a spirited context was going to take place. Moreover, to the apparent surprise of everybedy, the New-Yorkers although playing short of one or two of their best men showed wonderful form, and gave their copper-colored opponents some trouble to win the game, though the Indians were finally victors by two goals to one. Ludlerous incidents were frequent. An Indian would obtain possession of the ball, in his desperate endeavors to dedge the white men his broad brimmed white hat would fall off, and up on end would go his long switch of black hair, surmounted by the scarlet ribbons. As he would run down the long line of spectators closely pursued by one or more New-Yorkers, the effect would be lauxhable in the extreme and the crawd would shirlek with enthusiasm. Whenever the Indians could get the opportunity their cunning got the upper hand and they were not slow in hipping their adversaries. The crawd accepted this in silence, but whenever an Indian measured his length on the green sward, a shout of gies went up that made the welkin ring. During the second game two of the players fell and in less time than it takes to tell there was a confused mass of struggling indians and New-Yorkers, all trying to get possession of the little rubber sphere. This proved too much for the crowd, and women as well as men cheered and waved parasols in an alarmingly dangerous manner. When the New-Yorkers all trying to get possession of the little rubber sphere. At the end of the game sounded like vertained chocks. At the conductor the New-Yorkers cheered and the Indians gave an anearthly "whoop" that caused all the little boys sitting on the fonces to fall off backward with fright.

The Indians will play their return match on Monday, the 28th. On Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday of this week they will play the W. A. C. in Brooklyn. They are staying in Brooklyn.

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR.

PREPARING FOR THE TWO CONVENTIONS. REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS IN SARATOGA-GOS-

SIP AT THE HOTELS. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] SARATOGA, Sept. 19 .- It was apparent to-day to the hotel keepers from a shower of telegrams in regard to rooms that the two great political conventions of next week will be largely attended. The Republican State Convention will be held first, but the number of ocrats who are coming here at the beginning of the week is large, leading to the suspicion that they desire to know intimately the plans of their political opponents before forming their own. The supporters of Governor Hill, who believe that he now has a majority of the dele gates to the Democratic Convention, are considerably alarmed at this attitude of the Democratic leaders, thinking that they intend to defeat the Govern or's nomination if the Republicans make a nomination of an unusually high character. In that case, Abram 8. Hewitt stands the best chance of receiving the Democratic nomination, although the County Democracy leaders here still de-clare that they will support Edward Cooper to the "last ditch" and expect to nominate him. Almost every Republican leader of prominence will be present at the regret is expressed that Senator Evarts will not be here to give the Republican party the benefit of his council and a hope is expressed that he will change his plan in this respect. The leaders of the party are beginning to arrive. One of them, a large man with a clean-shaven free and prom ment features, indicating a resolute character, came into the United States Hotel this afternoon and regis tered his name. This was ex-Governo Alonzo B. Cornell, who last night wa elected a delegate from one of the New-York districts Mr. Cernell came directly from New-York and was warmly greeted by the Republicans who were at the notel. He had previously engaged one of the cottages of the hotel. There he was visited in the afternoon and evening by Republican delegates and politicians. Mr. Cornell frankly said that he did not come to Saratoga in the interest of any one of the several Republican candidates and that he was not committed to any candidate. The fact is," he said with a humorous twinkle in his eye, "I came here to learn something about politics."

from Albany. His friends are urging his nomination for State Treasurer again. When he ran for the office in 1879 Mr. Wendell received the highest number of votes exception of James W. Wadsworth. Mr. Wadsworth is nas he has no opponent it is clear that he will be nomi-nated. The friends of Mr. Wendell think that it would be a happy stroke to nominate him for State iTrensurer again. They point to the fact that he ran far ahead of the rest of the Republican ticket in Albany County in 1879 and they say that the Democratic party in that county is so much demornized this year by quarrels over Federal offices that Mr. Wendell would receive hundreds of voices of the dissatisfied Democrats. Mr. Wendell is willing to accept the nomination if the convention should nominate him.

Another arrival was that of Senator Henry R. Low, of Middletown, who will be pressed for Governor by the defeated. would be a happy stroke to nominate him for

ARRIVAL OF REPUBLICAN DELEGATES. THE NEW-YORK DELEGATION TO DISCUSS THE SIT

INT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE, ] SARATOGA, Sept. 19 .- As there is only one train into Saratoga on Sunday and that early in the day over 100 delegates to the Republican Convention came in to-night. These represent all parts of the State and nearly all the candidates. Edward Mitchell, George Bilss, ex-Governor Cornell, Bernard Biglin and the gates from other parts of the State concerning the prehere on Monday until which time all is uncertainty. If the New-York delegation should unite on a candidate, that man might be easily nominated.

A few men from the western part of the State are here in company with James D. Warren looking after his candidacy. General Sharpe and Theodore C. Teale candidacy. General Sharpe and Theodore C. Feste are assisting in that work. Mr. Warren says that he has not written a letter or in any way asked for the support of a single delegate. General Carr is busy circulating about the hotels invit-ing delegates to call at his headquarters. He is assisted by some of his cierks. Mr. Carr expresses the greatest ing delegates to call at his headquarters. He is assisted by some of his clerks. Mr. Carr expresses the greatest confidence in his newlination, and says that the sentiment for him is "spontaneous all over the State." He figures up a large following in New-York. George Bitss says that not 10 per cent of the New-York delegates favor Carr, and that they will all support a Union League candidate. Mr. Arkell still elings hopefully to the Drexel "beom," which does not appear to gather strength. John F. Smyth and others from Albany are talking for Swinburne, but are supposed to be not far from Morton. Senator Miller thinks inat it would be wise to take a man with experience in public life. Mr. Butterfield, of Oneida, is said to be mursing a Wadeworth "boom." Ex-Senator McArthur, of Troy, is endeavoring to promote the chances of Denuis McCarthy for Lieutenant-Governor. Some of the Brocklyn delegates say that they will, at the first, vote for Rinas B. Dutcher for Governor. This is said to be in the interest of Mr. Morton. He is credited with being the second choice of a large number of delegates who will at first vote for local candidates.

of Mr. Morton. He is credited with being the second choice of a large number of delegates who will at first yote for local candidates.

At this thee the three leading candidates seem to be Carr, Morton and Warren. The Morton and Warren men think that Carr's strength will crumble after a bailot or two. If General Seward gets any considerable support in New-York he will be a strong candidate, otherwise hot. Some effort is being made to get the New-York delegates to favor Andrew D. White. There is add to be warm feeling for him among the Germans. If C. N. Rilss would accept and if he had the support of the New-York delegation his nomination would probably follow. Howard Carroll says that John H. Starin will not be a candidate under any circumstances. The Montgonery delegates are for Drexel. James W. Husted's name is used in connection with the temporary chairmanship of the convention. A number of conferences are already projected for Mondoy. As more delegates arrive by later trains the situation is still shown to be unsettled and complicated. manning the state of the cooper men have a Maurice B. Flynn thinks that the Cooper men have a

HOW THE STREET SIGN CARRIERS LIVE. The public are familiar with the spectacle of fifteen or twenty men in rubber lovercoats and white stoveripe hats perambulating the streets with wooden banners, or wedged between two boards and doing duty as advertising mediums. Few, however, know how the "mediums" live. Their employer hires a basement at East Broadway and Grand-st. and there they eat and sleep. Their ueds are mattresses laid on the dirty floor, and thereon, when their labors are over, about 11 p. m., the "mediums" repeas. No sign of bed-clothes is visible, and the small room is strewn with old boards, broken bottles and other rubbish. There also their meals are cooked. The remuneration they receive in addition to their board is $2 a month, a small quantity of tobacco and two drinks of whiskey a day. Their money is spent on Sunday "working the growler." They would seem to be a fit subject for investigation by the Board of Health, as these perambulators are likely to spread through the city the germs of any epidemic. East Broadway and Grand-st. and there they cat and

SUICIDE OF A WEALTHY MAN. Charles Knack, age seventy, a well-known builder and real estate owner who lived at Bergen line ave, and Humboldiest, Union Hill, committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself to a beam in his carpenter shop. He went out to the shop at S a. m. and at noon, when his wife went to call him, discovered his body dangling from the beam. Mr. Knack was wealthy and carried on a good paying business. He has been sick for the last six months and it is supposed he became de-spondent.

Burglars wasted a great deal of time early yesterday in breaking the combination lock of a safe in the soda water establishment of Richard Warren & Co., in Paterson, N.J., for the safe had been left unlocked. They might also have saved the powder with which they blew off the inner doors, for these doors had not been looked. Had they seen the bag of coin containing $25 and $2,000 in Long Island City bonds which were lying in a pigeon-hole, they might have saved themselves the trouble of breaking the strong-box all to pieces and getting nothing at all. The police are looking for the unlucky and industrious cracksmen.

An action was brought some time ago by Mrs. Holzborn against her husband for a limited diverce en the ground of abandonment and cruel and unusual treatment. She complained that in 1882 he left her and her three children, and and ever since remised to provine for the support. They had previously led an unhappy life, and he had abused her and beaten her. It was stated that he was about to receive an inheritance of $40,000 from Germany, his native land, and that he was able to provide amply for her support. She allowed that he was about to depart from the city, and asked that he be arrested and that he be compelled to pay her $40 a week allmony and a counsel fee of $750. This application was granted.

> CHARGING HER HUSBAND WITH CRUELTY. An order was made in the City Court, Brook.

lyn, yesterday, directing Frank B. Haggenmiller to show cause on Monday why he should not give to his wife Annie, counsel fee and alimony pending her suit against him for limited divorce. Haggenmiller is a well-to-do lithographer. Mrs. Hag genmiller's counsel said in court yesterday that his client was the most beautiful woman in New-Brooklyn; that she had about $10,000 in her own right; had many lovers before her marriage, but cared for none of them until she met the defendant, who was "gailant and loving," and whom she married on May 13, 1883; that shortly after marriage she found that her "gallant and loving," and whom she married on shall as, 1883; that shortly after marriace she found that her husband wanted her money and was jealous of her; that he squandered her money and abused her constantly, beating her and abandoning her for weeks at a time; that he frequently threatened to kill her; that on April 22, 1884, he met her on Reid-ave., and in a fit of jealousy knocked her down and kicked her until she could not move. The next day he came to the house and said that he would leave her forever. He went away but came back at the end of three weeks and resumed his abuse of her. In December, 1834, he again beat her and knocked her down at Third-ave, and Thirteenth-st., New-York, and she was confined to hor bed the treafter for some time. In the morning he came to her bedside, slapped her face, called her vile names and went away remaining for weeks. Nine weeks ago he came home at 2a m., and when she found fault with him because of his ill treatment he knocked her down, choked her so that she lost her voice for two weeks and kicked her severely in the abdomen. The counsel also said that all her money was now gone and that she was without means of support unless her husband was compelled to provide it.

BUDDENSIEK TO BE BAILED.

Justice Van Brunt has directed that Charles A. Buddensiek, the builder, whose unfinished buildings in Sixty-first-st. near Tenth-ave. fell and caused the death of a workman, and who convicted of manslaughter, be adconvicted of manslaughter, be admitted to ball in $30,000. The application was made in his behalf by Charles W. Brooke, was contended that under Justice Van Brunt's recent decision granting a certificate that there was a reasonable doubt as to whether an error had not been committed on the trial, the prisoner should be released pending his appeal to the General Term. The certificate, he said, acted as a stay of proceedings, and it was not just that his client should be kept in jall under the circumstances. The District-Attorney vainly opposed the application, saying that the appeal could be argued next mouth, and that in a case of such gravity the prisoner should not be admitted to bail.

The habeas corpus proceedings in the case of Otto Meierhoff were before Justice Barrett in the Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday. August P. Wag Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday. August P. Wagner maintained that his client, who is detained in the Ward's Island Lunatic Asylum, was perfectly sane and was illegally deprived of his liberty. Assistant Corporation Counsel Walker Hartwell replied to this that Melerhoff had been regularly committed to the asylum by this Court upon a certificate signed by two physicians, and that he was not fit to be allerge. The Corporation Counsel, he said, desired to be relieved of responsibility in this and similar cases, beyond making the return to the Court. There was no fund at his disposal for conducting such cases before a jury or a referee, and he would respectfully decline to put in any further evidence ou this traverse. The further hearing was adjourned to order to give Melerhoff counsel an opportunity to present further evidence of his sanity.

Justice Donohue of the Supreme Court against the property of Madame Yeldo, who formerly boarded at the Hotel Brunswick, and who is said to An attachment was granted yesterday by now be known by another name, with which the applicants are not acquainted. The proceeding was taken in an action brought by Richard H. Southgate, assignee of the former proprietors of the hotel, Mitchell and Kinzier, to recover an advance of $340 which it is claimed that the lady has never paid. It was set forth in the moving papers that Madame Yeldo, who has married again since the debt was contracted, is the owner of the group of staturary called "The Temptation of St. Anthony, exhibited at the Eden Musee and that she intends to depart with it for France, thereby defrauding these ored-flores.
